Name: Jason Bourne

Age: 28

Gender: Male

Occupation: Associate Lawyer

He is a busy working professional, who looks forward to weekly game nights with his group of friends. Enjoys online multiplayer games that are engaging, interactive and low effort.

Challenges:

- Struggles with finding new games that are different, can be played more than once/twice before becoming boring and predictable.
- Finds it hard to schedule a day that works for everyone in the group for game night.
- When playing games that require storytelling and defining player roles, he and his group struggle to come up with something creative, especially after a long and busy work week.

Goals:

- Looking for a game that can be replayed fresh without getting predictable, can be one or multiplayer.
- Seeks a way to start game night without spending too much time in picking a game and setups.
- Wants to play in a dynamic environment that can easily adapt and improvise to player moves when the narrative gets overwhelming, with minimal effort required from players.
